BULLETIN

LONDON —(INS)— Large numbers of RAF fighters and bombers launched a new offensive against northern France today and maintained the attack throughout the afternoon. Terrific explosions in the Pas De Calais area shook the southern coast of Britain.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — British bombers blasted Bremen, Germany's second seaport, and British commandos fruitfully scouted the Gologne-Le Touquet area of Adolf Hitler's French coastal defenses overnight, government agencies announced today.

The Bremen raid, 94th of the war, was linked with an attack on the Dieppe docks and the air ministry announced that 10 bombers and two fighters were missing from the night operations.

A strong RAF force flew through moonlit skies to strike at Bremen's shipbuilding and submarine yards, docks, railways, steel works, oil refining installations and an aircraft factory in a follow-up to the mass raids upon Cologne and Essen. Only Hamburg ranks ahead of Bremen as a German maritime center.

Black-faced commandos, escorted by navy warships and protected in their withdrawal by RAF fighters, stabbed across Dover Strait after midnight on a reconnaissance raid officially declared to have produced "valuable information."

It was the second commando thrust against the Boulogne-Le Touquet area, scouted before on April 22. Boulogne lies 25 miles south of Dover and Le Touquet is 15 miles farther south. Between them is a coast of dunes and marshes.

The force was described as a

Charge Driver Hit Brick Piles, Trees And Street Roller

A Canton truck driver was arrested early today by Mansfield police after he had allegedly driven his tractor-trailer in a drunken "tear" along Park avenue west.

Police reported that Russell E. Dean, Canton, drove his truck into a street roller at Hoffman avenue where workmen are replacing street car rails with bricks. The truck ploughed through several piles of bricks and struck trees at Pinecrest avenue and Parkwood boulevard.

Dean was arrested by Police Lieut. Eugene Hartnett and Patrolman Carl Beard at Parkwood boulevard at 1:18 a. m. Dean sat in the truck which had three tires destroyed and one side crushed and denied hitting

Mansfield Rents Frozen to Level Paid on March 1

House rents in the Mansfield area were frozen today at their March 1 level as Price Administrator Leon Henderson ordered Mansfield and the surrounding communities placed in a defense rental area in line with governmental policy to keep down living costs.

Rents in Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties were frozen along with the city as they are included in the newly-created Mansfield defense rental area.

The new order prohibits property-owners in Mansfield and the three surrounding counties from charging any more for rent than they did on March 1.

Mayor W. R. Morris of Shelby, received a telegram from Henderson notifying him that Shelby will be included in the rent ceiling program and advising him that additional information is being forwarded.

WOUNDS FATAL TO 'HANGMAN'

Heydrich Dies Same Way as Thousands He Ordered Shot; More Czechs Slain.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN (From German Broadcast) — Reinhard Heydrich, 38, Reichsprotector for Bohemia and Moravia, died in Prague this morning of wounds suffered in an attempt on his life May 27, it was announced officially today.

(The assassination is expected to bring about the shooting of hundreds of hostages in addition to the 163 already slain in swift reprisals, Czech circles in London asserted.

(London sources declared Heydrich recently was appointed Gestapo chief for occupied Europe and it was pointed out ironically that the "Butcher of Moravia" died in virtually the same manner as hundreds of hostages he had ordered shot in France, Holland, Belgium, Norway, Poland and other countries during his hated career.)

(A Czech source in London said automatic rifles used by two men to shoot Heydrich were from the ordnance of the disbanded Czech army. The Czech government appealed by radio to the Czechs to stand firm against the Gestapo bloodshed and not disclose those connected with the shooting.

(Forty-six more Czechs were

SEES DEDUCTION

Morgenthau Hopes to Take Tax From Payrolls Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Secretary Henry Morgenthau, jr., said today the treasury hopes to begin deduction of income taxes from pay checks next Jan. 1.

He explained at his press conference that collection of income tax at the source after the first of the year would eliminate double tax collection, which otherwise would be the case in most instances if the collection were begun during the current year when wage earners are still paying last year's taxes.

The treasury department had proposed that 10 per cent of the taxable income be collected at the source and the proposal now is under consideration by congress.

Anderson's Petitions Go To Election Board; 8 Days Left For Filing.

Samuel A. Anderson of Newark today became the first candidate to file for congress in the 17th district which includes Richland and five other counties.

Anderson, a Democrat, filed petitions bearing 605 names with the Richland county board of elections. Congressional candidates must file in Mansfield because Richland county is the largest in the 17th district.

A. E. F. ADOPTS AIRGRAPH PLAN

Troops In Ireland Send Letters Home By New System.

LONDON —(AP)— United States army headquarters announced today that American troops in the British Isles now will be able to send airgraph letters to relatives and friends at home.

The system is similar to that used by British troops in India and the Middle East. The letters are written on specially prepared blanks and photographed by a micro-filming process. The films are taken by bomber to Washington, enlarged by the war department and forwarded to the addresses.

The use of such letters is not mandatory, but it would save hundreds of tons of air mail.

U. S. Moves 4 Acres of Scrap Metal From Farm Near Shelby

The sprawling junk piles on the farm of 70-year-old Allan Dick, five miles east of Shelby, were dwindling today for the first time in many years as the government program of requisitioning vital scrap metal, reaching into Richland county for the first time, went into high gear.

With a War Production Board representative looking on, a work crew from the Mandl Iron and Wrecking company of Willard was hard at work loading the scrap objects—a thousand varieties of sizes and shapes—into a huge truck.

Each time the truck is filled, it is dispatched to the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, which—like other steel firms throughout the country, has been hard hit by the shortage of scrap. It is estimated that it may take 10 days to complete the job.

Dick's conglomeration of junk, some of it dating back as much as a half century, covers close to four acres of the man's farm. In the collection are old pipes, old plows, pieces of fencing, an ancient windlass, buggies, auto

AHEAD OF SUBS

American Shipyards Turn Out 58 Vessels During May.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— American yards are building ships today at the fastest rate in history, and just got ahead of submarine sinking in May.

The maritime commission announced that American yards set a new world's record by delivering 58 ships into service during May. No nation, including the United States, ever had built as many ships in one month.

While the yards were stepping up production to the record rate during May, 57 ships were reported to have been sunk by submarines off the American coasts in the Atlantic, Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico. Most of the sinkings were announced by the navy department.

12,000 'NIP' TROOPS SENT DOWN BY SUB

Allied Undersea Craft Bags Two Supply Vessels In Southwest Pacific.

Two United Nations Ships Escape; Tokyo Claims Advances in China.

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today that an Allied submarine had sunk a 6,000-ton armed transport with the probable loss of 12,000 Japanese troops in the waters of the southwest Pacific, while four Japanese midget submarines were listed as sunk in the abortive raid on Sydney Harbor last Sunday.

Previously, only three of the tiny two-man Japanese underseas raiders had been reported sent to the bottom.

In addition to the Japanese troopship, United Nations headquarters said an Allied submarine sank two heavily-laden Japanese supply ships and damaged a third.

A communique also reported that Japanese submarines operating close off the east coast of Australia attacked three Allied cargo ships and sank one of them, but indicated that the other two escaped undamaged.

Amid these thrusts at Australia's shipping, suggesting an attempted blockade of the down-under continent, the war on China's east coast raged on with mounting fury.

A Tokyo broadcast asserted that Japanese offensives were forging ahead in three Chinese provinces—Chekiang, Kwantung and Kiangsi—and that Japanese troops had broken through the outer defenses of Chuhsien, key rail city in western Chekiang province.

A Japanese army spokesman said Japan's opening of a new front in Kiangsi province "serves as a final warning" to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese armies to give up their "meaningless resistance or accpet the alternative of annihilation."

The Chinese, who have repeatedly scoffed at such overtures through five bloody years of war

INDICTS FIVE

Grand Jury Cites Explosive Makers For Price Fixing.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company, five other explosive manufacturers and 10 of their officials were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring to fix prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Also named were the Hercules Powder company and the Atlas Powder company, both of Wilmington, Del.; the Austin Powder company of Cleveland; Illinois Powder Manufacturing company, St. Louis, and the King Powder company, Cincinnati.

The 10-page indictment contended that the effect of the alleged conspiracy was to "maintain the prices of commercial explosives and blasting supplies to all classes of consumers at high, arbitrary and artificial levels." The indictment also charged that the defendants controlled 75 per cent of the total volume of commercial explosives and blasting supplies produced in the nation.

Dutch Harbor Base Hit By 2 Enemy Raids

19 Jap Planes Set Small Fires In First Attack; Data on Second Assault Held Up; Pacific Area Residents Warned To Watch for Fifth-Columnists.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The navy, describing the situation at Dutch Harbor as "at present quiet," announced that the Japanese failed to drop any bombs on their second visit to Dutch Harbor yesterday. At the same time, the communique said that the attacking Japanese aircraft were thought to have been carrier-based.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Stimson predicted today that yesterday's Japanese air attacks on the Dutch Harbor naval base in Alaska were "not the only and last raids" to be expected on American territory.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The Pacific coast of North America—from the Aleutian islands of Alaska to the Panama canal—was in a state of rigorous alert today to meet any Japanese attempts to follow their two air raids on Dutch Harbor with attacks on the United States mainland.

The Japanese struck twice at the important Alaskan base at Dutch Harbor yesterday in what was believed to be an attempt to knock it out, perhaps in preparation for further thrusts against other North American objectives or for an attack on Siberia.

No details are yet available on the second raid.

Japs Copy U. S., Silent On Raids

(By Associated Press)

The Tokyo radio ignored today the Japanese air attacks on Dutch Harbor, perhaps emulating Washington's initial silence on the American raids on Japan, but the Berlin radio, declaring "unimaginable panic" had gripped Alaska, broadcast a number of accounts.

Under a Lisbon dateline, it said:

"Unimaginable panic caused in Alaska by Japanese air attacks on the Aleutian base of Dutch Harbor, according to reports received from Washington Thursday morning, induced the governor of Alaska, Ernest Gruening, to proclaim a state of emergency for the entire Alaskan region."

The first set fire to a few warehouses, but resulted in "no serious damage" and "but few casualties," the navy announced.

Three brief naval communiques told the news of the first Japanese air raid on what is considered part of the North American continent. The first revealed that four Japanese bombers and about 15 fighters attacked Dutch Harbor at dawn yesterday (noon EWT). The second gave the scant account of the damage inflicted. The third revealed only that a second raid occurred at noon (6 p. m. EWT).

Additional details of the attacks are expected to filter through to the navy here today, although if more raids occur they may be delayed until the commanding officers in Alaska have time to write their reports.

The attack on Alaska was no surprise here. Such tactics by the Japanese have been anticipated for some time and it was known that vigorous steps had been taken to make the entire Pacific coast ready for what happened at Dutch Harbor yesterday.

Today even those steps were intensified. Panama canal officials said the alert which had been in force since Tuesday

Arrest of Boy Gang of Eight Solves Series of Burglaries

With the sentencing of two 15-year-old leaders of a Mansfield "boy gang" to the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school by Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer, a series of burglaries of schools, business places and a church in the city in the past 18 months apparently had been solved today.

Six other boys from 10 to 15 years old, who admitted they were members of the "gang," received suspended sentences or were paroled to their parents and ordered to report regularly to juvenile court authorities. The group included two pairs of brothers.

Taken into custody by deputy sheriffs and city detectives after a new car was stolen from a wareroom near the city last weekend, the boys confessed they had broken into at least a dozen places in the city in the past year and a half.

Among the buildings they said they had burglarized were the Bowman and West Fifth street elementary schools, John Simpson junior high school, the Free Methodist church, Fox Hardware store, a grocery store, and an ice cream parlor.

They said they obtained a small amount of change after ransacking the school and church offices.

British Rout Axis Troops In Desert as Free French Hold

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt — British Imperial armored forces were reported today to have routed Axis soldiers from a desert stronghold in a fierce engagement while their Free French allies held fast against efforts by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel to seize the key position of Bir Hacheim.

A Middle East command communique said British forces, attacking at the "last light of June 2," drove the enemy out of Tamar, 21 miles southwest of Tobruk and six miles west of Knightsbridge.

"The enemy is known to have lost at least 14 tanks in this engagement," the communique declared.

There are British Indian troops at Bir Hacheim, but British source ssaid the main force consists of Free French metropolitan troops plus a battalion of the French Foreign Legion which now is about 85 per cent French.

A comunique said British forces holding the left flank of the severed Ain El Gazala-Bir Hacheim line repulsed an assault by German and Italian mechanized units, which were then attacked in the rear by roving Imperial forces yesterday.

"A large number of Stukas (dive bombers) also attacked Bir Hacheim and were successfully engaged by our air forces," the bulletin added.

HITLER TAKES NO CHANCES WITH GENERALS

Writer Says Officers Often Disagree With Fuehrer But Remain Loyal.

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of observations brought from Germany by Louis P. Lochner who was recently released from internment at Bad Nauheim.)

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK— (Wide World) — It's revolvers down and belts off for any general or field marshal who wants to see Adolf Hitler at his GHQ in East Prussia, or in the Berlin chancellory, or anywhere else.

No matter how well an army, or airforce leader may know Der Fuehrer, no matter how completely in his confidence he may believe himself to be, the German dictator takes no chances.

Hence, before anybody can come into his presence, he must park his pistol, his military belt, or his saber in the anteroom.

The erstwhile corporal of the first World war loves the game of war more than he loves anything else. He wants to out-Napoleon Napoleon.

When in his reichstag speech of April 26 he praised the German troops for having accomplished during the past winter what the forces of the Great Corsican could not achieve, he in fact impliedly told the world that he had already outstripped Napoleon.

Filled as he is with military ambition, he can tolerate no other gods beside himself. The late Colonel-General von Fritsch, the father of the present German army, had to resign because he dared criticize Hitler's acquiescence in Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg's marital mes-alliance in 1938.

General Beck, chief of the German general staff, became "ill" just before the outbreak of the present war. He opposed Hitler's policy of frightfulness.

Adolf Hitler to his older officers will ever remain the World war corporal. True to their oath as soldiers they obey Der Fuehrer as the commander-in-chief of all the nation's military forces. But they often wince at his decisions and, when strictly among themselves, criticize both his strategic plans and their moral implications.

In the keynote speech which Adolf Hitler delivered to the assembled military top leaders in his Berchtasgaden mountain retreat a few days before the invasion of Poland began, he put himself on record as favoring the total war front in which women and children can be as little exempted as can civilian populations generally if caught between sections of the retreating army. He stated bluntly that he didn't mind being called Ghengis Khan or Attila the Hun; history recorded these names as those of great doers. He urged the generals to be tough.

The Polish campaign proceeded with a fierceness and brutality unequaled hitherto, but Hitler was not satisfied. He wanted the soldiers and their officers not only to fight battles but also to make short shrift of the Polish population.

The army balked at this. So Hitler sent his uncompromising SS men to Poland to "clean up." They did—and countless are the stories told me by German officers themselves of acts of inhumanity committed by the Black Guards.

General von Blaskowitz, on behalf of the army, protested against these methods. He has been in disgrace ever since.

The brutality of the SS in Poland is not the only objection which the regular army has against this special formation of Hitler bodyguards. The regular forces resent the preferred publicity given the exploits of the SS in the daily communiques; and they resent the "break" given the SS always to be in the final skirmish of a decisive strategic movement.

Another point of friction between Hitler and the old-line generals has been the Nazi fight on the church. The old Prussian officer was used to going to church on Sundays and seeing Army chaplains about him on the battlefield.

One hears again and again that the generals' corps is fed up and ready to throw the entire Nazi outfit out.

Such rumors, I believe, are too much the result of wishful thinking. For, however much a general may disagree with Der Fuehrer, he remembers his oath of allegiance. And he also remembers that in imperial Germany and later in the short-lived republic, too, it was part of the creed of an officer that he must never become mixed up in politics. To remove the Nazis would be a political act of the first magnitude.

Therefore, a generals' revolution, for the present at least, represents a myth and should be discounted as such.

Father and Two Sons Are In the Same Army Unit

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa.—(INS)—Three Sergeant Osmans—father and two sons—are in training in the same company at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.

Staff Sergeant Leroy Osman, 41, and his sons, Sergeants James and William Osman, 20 and 19 years, respectively, have been soldiering together for more than a year and a half without a trace of friction.

The boys averred they had taken orders at home from their father and they don't mind taking them in the Army. They hope to follow in the footsteps of the elder Osman, who has seen 18 years of Army life.

Soldiering runs in the Osman family. Sgt. Leroy Osman's grandfather was in charge of an outfit in the War of 1812.

Mrs. Osman lives in town near the camp and tries to keep alive the home life of her husband and sons. She sees them as frequently as possible and doesn't seem to mind all three being in the Army.

West Coast on Alert After 2 Alaska Raids

had been tightened in line with similar measures taken in the United States.

The western defense command and the Fourth army in San Francisco asked the public to watch for any possible appearance on the Pacific coast of Japanese wearing American army uniforms and to assume that such individuals "might be fifth columnists." Those authorities also silenced all radios along the coast from Mexico to Canada last night as a precautionary measure "in view of the situation earlier today."

In British Columbia, the vast Canadian province that stretches from the American-Canadian border along the Pacific coast to Alaska and the Yukon, all radio stations were silenced and defense forces were prepared for any eventuality.

These announcements indicated that officials are not discounting the possibility of Japanese assaults on the continental United States or Canada. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson warned last week that such attacks were inevitable because the Japanese would want to avenge the "stinging, humiliating surprise blow" struck by American bombers in April against Tokyo.

Some military experts, however, believe that the Dutch Harbor attacks might be a prelude to a Japanese attack on Siberia. They contended that the Japanese consider Alaskan bases a potential threat to their northern flank should they attempt to campaign to the north.

The Japanese have long regarded the American-owned Aleutian chain which extends in an arc some 1,500 miles westward from the southwest tip of the Alaskan mainland, as a potential threat to their empire. Dutch Harbor is the major American base in those islands and lies some 1,400 miles east of the nearest Japanese islands and about 2,500 miles from Tokyo.

There was another theory that the attacks against Dutch Harbor may have been inspired by the Japanese feeling that the American air attack on Tokyo on April 18 may have originated there.

As in the case of the raid on Tokyo, there was no information here as to the starting base for the Japanese blows at Dutch Harbor. Most opinion here leaned to the theory that Japanese aircraft carriers participated in the operation.

Although such air raids had been anticipated, news of the Dutch Harbor attacks came with shocking suddenness. For the first time since this country entered the war, the navy issued more than two communiques in a single day. Three communiques on the Dutch Harbor incident were released within five hours.

The first came at 4:30 p. m. EWT. It said:

"Information has been received that Dutch Harbor, Alaska, was attacked by four Japanese bombers and about fifteen fighters at approximately 6 a. m., local time today (noon EWT). The attack lasted approximately 15 minutes. No further details are available at this time."

Two hours later came this announcement:

"Further reports on the Japanese air attack at Dutch Harbor, which took place earlier today, state there were but few casualties. A few warehouses were set on fire but no serious damage was suffered."

Finally, shortly after 9:15 p. m., EWT, the navy told of the second attack:

"A brief report just received in the navy department states that for the second time today enemy planes have attacked Dutch Harbor. The second attack was made about noon, local time (6 p. m., EWT) six hours after the initial attack."

Air experts said the bombers in the first attack had unusually heavy fighter protection. The small size of the bomber force—only four and the vastly greater fighter escort indicated, they said, that the Japanese apparently were eager to have those craft return. Furthermore, they said, it appeared that the initial attacking force was testing the strength of the Dutch Harbor air defenses.

Rear Admiral C. S. Freedman, commandant of the 13th naval district, said in Seattle that the first attack was "not a surprise" and that the Dutch Harbor defenders "were prepared to meet it."

The state of defenses at Dutch Harbor is a military secret. But it is known that work to strengthen the submarine and naval base located there has been going ahead as fast as humanly possible during the last two years.

Dutch Harbor, while the most important base in the Aleutian islands, is not the most important in Alaska. More powerful is the base on Kodiak island—600 miles to the east.

The little port of Dutch Harbor is considered unimportant commercially because of the fog—caused by arctic winds meeting the warm Japanese current—and treacherous uncharted rocks in the vicinity. But it is strategically located for military purposes, being about halfway on the Great Circle San Francisco-to-Yokohama route. It also forms the first line of defense for the valuable and important territory of Alaska.

Mansfield Men at Dutch Harbor

Several Mansfield and Richland county men are stationed at the Dutch Harbor base in Alaska. Friends and relatives of these men were heartened by preliminary navy reports that few casualties were suffered in the first Japanese bombing raid and were anxiously awaiting a report today on the results of the second attack.

U. S. Officers Talk With Chiang Kai-Shek

CHUNGKING—(AP)—Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, American commander of Chinese forces which fought the Japanese in Burma, and Major Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of United States army air forces in India, arrived by plane today for conferences with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Stilwell, the Chinese generalissimo's chief of staff, led the Fifth and Sixth Chinese armies in their defense of the east flank of the Burma front.

He escaped into India in a hazardous overland journey when his headquarters was cut off by the Japanese, and declared bluntly that "we took a hell of a beating."

Brereton is in charge of the United States bomber forces which pounded the Japanese during the last weeks of their Burma campaign and now are battering at the bases from which the invaders menace India.

Tokyo Calls Raids 'Reconnaissance'

LONDON — (INS) — The Vichy radio today broacast a Tokyo statement to the effect that Japanese raids on Dutch Harbor are considered in the nature of reconnaissance and a prelude to "more important operations," according to Reuter's (British) news agency.

Congress Expected Dutch Harbor Raids

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Japanese attacks on Dutch Harbor did not surprise members of congress or Alaskan Delegate Anthony J. Dimond.

"It shows good sense and judgment if they can bust up what we are doing in Alaska and the Aleutians," Dimond said. "The Japanese anticipate that their greatest danger lies in the approach to their shores which we are going to make from Alaska.

"I've been preaching for a long time to these boys in congress and the war department that if we are going to win this war we'd better do it through Alaska."

Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the house military affairs committee predicted that the attacks would result in "more aggressive action on the part of the United States."

"The raids were to have been expected," he said. "I think they are feelers to see how much resistance there is up there. But I think it will result in more than a feeler on our part in the next few weeks."

As U. S. Takes Junk on Farm Near Shelby

Some of the material is stored in ancient barns and small buildings which are in a condition best described by the fact that a clause was inserted in the papers covering the transaction to release the government of liability if the buildings should topple when the scrap is removed.

The entire assortment goes to Empire—which is paying $13.25 per ton for this type of scrap. Since the junk piles contain an estimated 400 tons, Dick stands to collect in the neighborhood of $5,300 for his life savings of junk.

Although there has been a lengthy dispute revolving around the Dick junk collection—a dispute climaxed by the government's requisitioning order, all appeared peaceful yesterday when Roy F. Kenney, the WPB representative, visited the farm to make certain that the removal of scrap was proceeding smoothly.

Dick and Kenney shook hands amicably enough when the latter left to return to his office in Cleveland. He is regional chief of the special projects section of the WPB bureau of industrial conservation.

According to Kenney, WPB agents located the scrap pile in March and took steps to have it moved to steel plants sorely in need of scrap. Dick accepted a contract which paid him $12.50 a ton, and which permitted him to retain 25 tons of the scrap.

However, when the buyers attempted to take possession, he haggled over practically every piece of material in the scrap piles, Kenney said.

Last week, Kenney and a United States deputy marshal arrived and served the requisition notice on Dick. They warned him that any further difficulty would make him liable to criminal action.

Curtin Reveals 4 Midget Subs Sunk

CANBERRA—(INS)—In a review of the Pacific war before the Australian parliament today Prime Minister John Curtain declared that the battle of the Coral sea was a signal success for the United Nations and averted an immediate threat to Australia.

Curtain disclosed that four midget Japanese subs, instead of three as previously announced, took part in the attempted attack on Sydney harbor shortly before midnight Sunday.

The prime minister said that naval authorities had confirmed that four of the small undersea craft attempted to enter the harbor and all were destroyed.

Ohio Methodists Plan $1,000,000 Pensions Fund

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Ohio's Methodist churches plan to establish a $1,000,000 pension fund for retired ministers and their families.

The Ohio Methodist conference approved plans yesterday for an immediate campaign to raise the money through contributions of pastors and congregations and appointed J. Boyd Davis, Columbus insurance man, to head the drive.

Dr. Lester Roush of Columbus, conference secretary, said that the campaign would last several years and that each church would be asked to contribute an amount equal to the yearly salary of its pastor, except in a few instances

He estimated 150 ministers and widows were eligible to participate in the aid fund, $600,000 of which would be allocated to pensions and the rest placed in trust.

Pastors must retire at the age of 72 but may give up active service earlier if unable to perform duties.

but their loot at the hardware store amounted to approximately $100 in cash. Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer, said they entered most of the buildings by prying windows open or the locks off rear doors.

The two admitted leaders of the group confessed taking a new car belonging to the Colby and Earick agency from a store room where several cars were kept. The car was found several hours later abandoned along a dead-end street in the northwest part of the city.

When brought into court, the two youths implicated the other members of their "gang."

small contingent; casualties were officially declared to have been slight.

(The German high command said that its forces had repulsed "an attempted British landing" on the occupied French coast and that German troops had captured "some prisoners and arms.")

The Boulogne-Le Touquet area, 25 miles from England's Dover coast, is viewed by military experts as one of several areas suitable as bridgeheads for an invading Allied army.

It is a doorstep to the valleys of the French rivers Seine and Somme through which English forces have struck at Paris in the past.

There have been reports from the Russian front recently that the Germans were forced to divert some forces from this area of France, particularly armored divisions forming the backbone of the German defenses in France.

The operation took on implications of added importance in the absence of the commando leader, Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten. He was in Washington with Field Marshal Sir John G. Dill, member of the combined chiefs of staff group set up last February "to insure complete coordination of the war effort" of the United States and Britain.

Also reported participating in the Washington talks were general George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, and Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States army air forces, who had just returned there from London.

British fliers found weather favorable and cast their explosive loads upon Bremen by the light of flares, the air ministry said.

Nazi airdromes in occupied France and the Low Countries and the harbor installations of Dieppe, on France's channel coast, also were attacked and mines were laid in enemy waters, it added.

Bremen is a city of 325,000 population occupying sandy plains on both banks of the Weser river 46 miles from the North Sea and 300 miles from England's east coast.

Reliable sources said the new nocturnal thrusts were on a moderate scale for the second night in succession, following the crippling 1,000-plane assaults against Cologne and Essen.

A Berlin broadcast said the British attacked places along the northwest coast of Germany and 10 of the raiders were shot down, but disclosed no details.

RAF planes were heard over the moonlit channel in the early morning hours and soon after dawn the bombers were heard throbbing their way back to their bases, concealed in a low haze.

Four German aircraft were destroyed during the night over Nazi bases in France and another over Britain, it was announced.

A small number of German planes tried to cross the southeast English coast by daylight, but heavy fire from ground batteries forced them back in some disorder.

Seven Burned to Death When U. S. Bomber Crashes in Alabama.

MOBILE, Ala. — (INS) — Seven army men from Key field, Meridian, Miss., were dead today, burned to death when their B-25 medium bomber crashed and caught fire in a wooded section of suburban Whistler.

The twin-motored ship, flying low, appeared to have turned over completely in the air before crashing, witnesses said.

Commandos Obtain Valuable Data

LONDON —(INS)— British Commando units early today conducted their seventh incursion into Nazi-held territory and returned to England with valuable information concerning German defenses in the Boulogne-Le Touquet area on the coast of France.

The daring landing on the German occupied French shore was effected by the Commandos under protection of Royal Air Force fighters and naval units.

The Commandos were engaged by German forces and suffered some "slight" casualties but came away with valuable information, headquarters of the combined operations command announced in a communique upon return of the raiding party.

Although the operations command described the mission as a "minor reconnaissance," this latest sortie was seen in some quarters as a prelude to establishment of a second front in Europe through a large-scale invasion.

Japan's Attack On Alaska

JAPAN'S aggressive warfare was brought close to continental United States yesterday by an air raid on Alaskan territory.

The attack on Dutch Harbor, at the eastern end of the Aleutian island chain, is considered as no more than a forerunner of what may be expected in this vital defense area.

Unlike the recent American air raid over Tokyo, this attack by Japan was not unexpected and preparations to meet it had been in progress for a number of months.

It indicates, however, that the long distances involved in reaching the United States from Japanese-controlled territory in the Pacific will not serve as protection against enemy attack from that direction. Emphasis is given to the importance of not only maintaining close guard of vulnerable points on both coasts but also of proceeding, with the greatest possible speed, to carry the war to the enemy with such destructive force as to quickly remove the menace of such attacks.

Looking Ahead From Graduation

GRADUATION from high school, or college, into the realities of a world at war is quite a different matter than the peace-time routine of looking toward the future through rose-tinted glasses which have long been regarded as standard equipment of American young people at this stage of their lives.

At the age of 18—the average for high school graduation—there would ordinarily be a period of several years for further preparation before entering into the serious responsibilities of adult life. These years might be devoted to college work, to learning a trade, to acquiring the fundamentals of some appealing vocation, or, as was done by some, merely drifting along in Micawber fashion, waiting for "something to turn up."

It is different now. The young men and young women being graduated from high school, in Mansfield and all over the country, are above the adult average in intelligence and physical fitness—and they are also more keenly conscious of the meaning and purposes of this war than many of their elders.

They realize that it is for the preservation of their country as they have known it, and for retention of the heritage of freedom by future generations of Americans, that the nation is now engaged in war against ruthless enemies who seek to destroy everything that liberty-loving people hold dear.

THE PAST few years may have been confusing to many of these young people. Before entry of the United States into the war there was such an exhibition of muddled thinking on the part of some people in high places, such a flood of pacifist propaganda and so much subversive activity in this country that young and old had difficulty in sifting truth from falsehood.

A remembered incident is the determined effort made a few years ago to remove all semblance of military training from publicly supported institutions of learning—notably in the case of Ohio State university—at the very time when growing need for such training was becoming more generally recognized as an essential part of adequate national preparedness.

Isolationism became the preachment of some theorists whose prominence gained widespread hearing, and the idea that the United States was self-sufficient and need be unconcerned about conditions elsewhere in the world was widely heralded.

Even Ohio congressmen, presumably in the higher brackets of intelligence, were so unaware of national peril prior to Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor last December 7, that they voted 19-1 against establishing a naval base on the island of Guam; 18 to 3 against neutrality revision; 16 to 6 against an appropriation for military planes; 20 to 3 against conscription; 14 to 10 against the lease-lend bill and 21 to 2 against extension of the original draft period. Our own district congressman, J. Harry McGregor, is recorded as having opposed all of these preparedness measures on which he voted.

WHILE it is natural that the first concern of graduates is in possibilities for their own participation in the war effort, either in military or civilian capacity, they should never lose sight of the fact that when the war has been brought to a victorious end, the task of reconstruction on a peace-time basis will be one of the greatest ever faced by Americans, and that it will be necessary for these young people to make ready to share in the work that must be done.

Commencement, for them, is in reality a beginning—and happy will be the lot of those who recognize it as such and measure up to the standards and traditions of true Americanism.

Encouraging Inventive Genius

NOW IS THE TIME, if ever, to encourage inventions. This makes particularly praiseworthy the project of the American Hobby Federation, which will sponsor an inventors' exposition in New York.

No doubt there will be some perpetual motion machines, and perhaps schemes for making explosives out of used chewing-gum; but something worth while is likely to come out. A previous exposition resulted in a number of exhibitors marketing their inventions. Young America is ingenious, and a little encouragement like that offered by this exposition will bring out its resourcefulness.

It's one doctor's idea that fatigue may be a sign of too much rest—but long hours of work have also been known to produce a similar feeling.

Robert Quillen pities a nation "at the mercy of statesmen who can't think of any way to solve any problem except by raising the income tax."

They're talking about making tires from alcohol—which seems a much safer place for it than behind the steering wheel.

In any event, a silent Browder is a new experience.

WATCHERS OF THE NIGHT

No Gas Shortage For Lawmakers

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

BEING a United States senator or representative has its compensations.

The national lawmakers can get all the gas they want, to run their automobiles. Federal Price Fixer Leon Henderson's office says they're not necessarily entitled to it in unlimited doses, but it takes a pretty nervy functionary to refuse an X-card to so potent an individual as a congressman, when he submits his demand.

The OPA's theory is that even one of Uncle Sam's legislators has an X-classification properly coming to him only to the extent to which he uses his car on governmental errands—not on trips between his boarding place and the Capitol, like any other workingman; not for shopping around; certainly not for pleasure jaunts into the country on his days off.

If he says they're all one and the same thing, though, what's the issuing clerk to do about it? Tell such a mogul as a congressman, like an ordinary person, that his word's doubted? Scarcely!

Anyway, more than 200 X's were issued to the Capitol Hill contingent on the first registration day. That was quite a chunk out of the bunch's 531 total, and it's to be borne in mind that not half of 'em all were applicants quite that soon. If a single one was turned down, I haven't heard of him, and I'll bet I would, if there'd been one, he'd have made an issue of it on the house or senate floor. Besides the X-guaranteed congressman, most of their wives got a three-gallon allowance each.

Bomb Worries.

Incidentally, congress is jittery concerning the possibility of air bombings of the Capitol building, while it's in session belowstairs. It recently voted between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 to make its roofs explosion proof.

The houses may have to find temporary quarters within which to legislate while the work's going on, but, if possible, they hope they can adjourn for a couple of months— nominally while being fortified; really to give 'em time to campaign for re-election prior to the November test at the polls. Of course (parenthetically), it's going to be quite a wartime, nonpartisan affair—but, naturally, the rival candidates all want to win.

Speaking of the danger of air raids over the Capitol building is remindful of blackouts, of which Washington's had its practice epidemics recently. To most folk they're a nuisance. Yet, a few evenings ago, I was chased by one of 'em into a little dive I occasionally frequent, very temporarily, on my way home. Said the proprietor, an old friend of mine: "Thank heaven for these blackouts. They drive all the taxicabmen and miscellaneous bums into my dump and lookit the money I make out of 'em."

It's curious to compare the early stages of this war with the early stages of the last one.

Then the whole screech was for the suppression of alcohol. Now soft drinkers are at a discount. Hard licker's perfectly available, except maybe in a few prohibition states, and I've my doubts concerning those. But soft stuff's rationed darned strictly.

We'll have enough (waiving drinks) to eat, according to Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard.

But what Wick says is that we'll have to "reduce our standard of living."

Now, it isn't so long lince an INCREASE in our standard of living was what our then administration was promising us.

It's funny to hear that we've got to REDUCE.

Free Men Win Wars

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE NOT always liked John Steinbeck's books. I am not amused by stories of fat men who smash little mice or muss up blonds, although I have seen a few blonds who needed a pinch or two. And I was downright mad at John when he depicted Californians as a bunch of bloodthirsty meanies, because I happen to be a Californian myself. But at last he has written a book to which I accord my most humble respect and envy. It's a glorious and a terrible book. It's name is "THE MOON IS DOWN" (Viking Press).

It is a very simple, quiet and horrible story. It tells how simple it is for a foreign foe to move in on a great and brave people, and leave a hell where there was a peaceful heaven.

The scene is Norway and the people are common, friendly folk like you and me on any quiet Sunday morning. They have gone about their gentle pleasures. But while they went, a small, dark transport loaded with soldiers slipped past them, dropped anchor.

So, there you see how war comes to Norway as it came to Pearl Harbor, as it might come to our own shores if we were not arming ourselves against it.

There is a Colonel Lanser in charge of the invasion and there is the little old doctor of the town. And there are certain words between them before the doctor goes out to his hopeless doom. They are quiet words. No one screams or yells although already the smell of blood is in the air.

But there seems a strange peace in that old room where the last chapter is played, for here are two strong men—each sincere, one the conqueror, one the shackled conquered. Neither one can see the other's truth. But though his hands are manacled, there are no chains on the doctor's heart. Quietly, even a little wistfully, he gazes at the German who towers above him. Puzzled, even a little defiant, the German looks down at the Norwegian.

"We have taken on a job, haven't we?" said Colonel Lanser.

"Yes," said the doctor, "the one impossible job in the world, the one thing that can't be done."

"And that is?"

"To break a man's spirit permanently."

These words affront all that Colonel Lanser has been taught to believe. Still, as a brave man, he respects courage when he finds it. He does not want to send this man out to death. He does not himself prefer the stink of war. But if there is to be a war he may as well see it through.

And so as the long moments pass he still argues, seeking an excuse for clemency. But there can be no compromise between these two. An edge of rage broke into the old doctor's voice. But Orden, the mayor, fingered his gold medallion, spoke quietly:

"You see, sir, nothing can change it. You will be destroyed and driven out." His voice was very soft. "The people don't like to be conquered, sir, and so they will not be. Free men cannot start a war, but once it is started, they can fight on in defeat. Herd men, followers of a leader, cannot do that, and so it is always the herd men who win battles and the free men who win wars. You will find that is so, sir."

"IT IS THE FREE MEN WHO WIN WARS." FOR FREEDOM IS NOT A PATTERN OF POLITICS . . . IT IS NOT EVEN A WAY OF LIFE . . . IT IS SOMETHING THAT GOD IMPLANTED IN THE HUMAN CLAY WHEN HE MOLDED IT INTO FORM AND BREATHED HIS SPIRIT IN IT. THEY WHO FIGHT US ARE NOT MERELY FIGHTING DEMOCRACY. THEY ARE FIGHTING GOD. THEY ARE FIGHTING "THE EVERLASTING WINGS" THAT NO MAN, NOR ALL THE LEGIONS OF HELL, CAN BLAST OUT OF THE SKY.

About Witholding Tax.

Editor News-Journal:

There is confusion in the minds of some citizens as to what the proposed withholding tax is.

It is a method of collecting income tax not an additional tax. It is easier to pay the tax at the time the income is earned than in a lump sum at the end of the year. The present income tax rate can only be increased by act of congress, in reducing exemptions or increasing rates.

As much of our war program as possible should be paid by taxes to check inflation. Patriotic Americans will pay their taxes without much grumbling.

'Politics-As-Usual' Being Played With New Tax Bill In Congress

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Not all tax dodgers are those who cheat the government of revenue. On Capitol Hill there is another form of tax dodging which, while violating no law, is euchring the government out of far more money.

This form of tax dodging consists of congressmen playing the sordid old game of politics-as-usual with legislation vital to the nation.

Early in March the treasury submitted to the house ways and means committee the 1942 tax bill. Prepared after weeks of careful study, the measure was largely the work of Randolph Paul, the nation's outstanding tax authority who patriotically gave up a lucrative corporation practice to serve his country.

All tax legislation is highly controversial, but one thing can be said categorically about the treasury's bill. It was a carefully balanced program designed to distribute the burden of the proposed heavy tax increases equitably on all classes according to their ability to pay.

Secret Hatcheting.

FOR three months the 15 Democratic and 10 Republican members of the ways and means committee, sitting in closely guarded secrecy, have been ripping the treasury bill to pieces with the end still not in sight. It probably will be another month before the hatcheting finally is concluded.

Meanwhile this is what these politics-as-usual masterminds have accomplished so far—

1. Completly smashed the treasury's carefully balanced program of equitable distribution of the tax burden.
2. Slashed tax proposals on corporation and upper-income brackets, while increasing the load on the lower brackets.
3. Refused to plug up loopholes in the tax law to relieve certain wealthy elements from paying millions.
4. Hacked off more than $2,225,000,000 from the treasury's $8,800,000,000 revenue program.

Note: The ways and means committee hatcheting of the treasury's bill will mean a saving of $500 in taxes for members of congress.

Politics-As-Usual.

HERE are the details of what the boys did in their politics-as-usual axing in the secrecy of the committee room:

1. Slashed $691,000,000 from the treasury's corporation tax schedule.
2. Scissored $750,000,000 from the treasury's taxes on middle and upper brackets.
3. Refused to collect $483,000,000 that the treasury proposed to obtain by plugging up the loopholes on tax-exempt securities and long-assailed deductions allowed the oil, gas and mining industries.
4. Junked $330,000,000 sought by the treasury through increased estate and gift taxes on the wealthy.

The committee doubled, and in some cases tripled, taxes on the lower brackets, but flatly rejected the president's demand for a $25,000 limit on individual incomes as one means of distributing the war burden equally.

Poor vs. Rich.

UNDER the committee's bill, a messenger boy earning $10 a week would be subject to a 6 per cent normal and 11 per cent surtax. But an individual with a $1,000,000 income from tax-exempt securities wouldn't pay one cent in taxes.

There are 25 persons in the U. S. who last year had tax-free incomes of $1,000,000 or over. Under the committee's bill they would continue to enjoy these vast incomes untouched and without contributing one penny to the war effort.

Last year one oil company actually made over $6,500,000 profits. But by using unplugged loopholes it reported to the treasury a loss of $7,000,000—thus completely escaping taxation.

Sales Tax.

REAL purpose behind the committee's axing of the treasury's tax bill is to set the stage for a drive to jam through a general sales tax.

The treasury's $8,800,000,000 war revenue program has got to be met. Everyone is agreed on that. With over $2,225,000,000 ripped out of the treasury's bill by the committee, it has to find some way to produce these desperately needed funds.

The alternative is a sales tax.

That's what a majority of the committee secretly have up their sleeves and that's why it already has taken them three months to "consider" the treasury's anti-sales tax bill.

The president and the treasury are vehemently opposed to a sales tax, and the politicos are well aware that putting over their secret scheme will not be easy. A lot of stage setting had to be done first. That's the whole story of what they have been up to in the past three months of politics-as-usual behind locked doors.

Liked Boss Hague.

SOME unique arguments went into the record during the senate judiciary committee's turbulent hearing on the appointment of Thomas F. Meaney, henchman of Mayor Frank Hague, as a federal judge.

One witness assured the committee that Meaney was an "excellent conversationalist" and "the type of man you would like to go to a theater or a ball game with."

The Irish War Vets and the Disabled Vets of New Jersey also went to bat for Meaney, as did a dignified Jersey City minister who solemnly declared that Mayor Hague was a good man because he replaced a cobble-stone street in front of his church with a paved thoroughfare.

However, the most unusual argument came from an opponent of Meaney's confirmation, Mrs. C. F. Robbins, a member of the state board of the New Jersey League of Women Voters and a vigorous Hague foe.

Mrs. Robbins brought the house down by accusing Meaney and Boss Hague, among other things, of creating dissension in her kitchen.

"Ever since Mr. Meaney's nomination was announced," she testified amid howls, "I haven't been able to get along with my cook. My cook is a great admirer of Mayor Hague and she won't listen to anyone criticize him.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Nice little party for President Prado of Peru at the 17th Armory the other night. . . . But it scared the daylights out of a lot of midtown housewives. . . . They hadn't been warned to expect that 21-gun salute, which all presidents rate. . . . They thought it was an air raid. . . . Shortly after nine p. m. the boom of guns began to roll across the half dimmed-out city. . . . It sounded pretty authentic. . . . Couple nights earlier preparations for this salute were made. . . . One of the things tried was the firing of a 45 calibre pistol into a huge ash can. The effect was a dull rolling boom across the building tops. . . .

THE Red Cross called this morning. . . . An emergency blood transfusion was in order, and this department's name came up. . . . I felt pretty good about it. . . . "The record shows you're type 4, or 0," they said, "but we'll have to type you again, just to be sure you're comparible." . . . So they re-typed me, and I was, and I write this into the record so that I won't ever forget that my type is 4, which is the same as 0, and so that if you too are type 4, and ever need a fast pint, you'll know where to come. . . .

HERE'S one for Information Please: What great battle which had a direct bearing on the destiny of the Western Hemisphere was fought in which not a single shot was fired? This battle involved thousands of troops and it is one of the bloodiest encounters on record.

It was the battle of Junin, which wrested control of Peru from the Spaniards. This battle was fought entirely by cavalry with sabres, some 18,000 troops being involved. Not a single shot was fired.

I GUESS Chaplin fans never forget, or grow cold. . . . Years ago, when the little tramp with the baggy trousers made "The Gold Rush," he probably never dreamed it would come back to Broadway, after a generation, and play for week after long week to capacity audiences. . . . But it has, and the filmings do not end at midnight. . . . They last all night. . . . It seems strange to think that you can go into a movie at 4 o'clock in the morning, or at two, or at six. . . . But, you can.

A Farmer's Diary

Killdeer's Ruse

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WENT down to the southern border of the farm to get some posts. Along the thick wall of calamus that grows higher than my waist a killdeer winged close to me and screamed loudly, in flight. Their graceful wing spread and airy acrobatic movements always make me pause to observe and marvel.

This bird seemed to have some purpose. I walked on slowly and it landed before me in the path and ran along as if in pain. When I kept following, it stopped but a single yard from my feet and laid over on its side, flopped a limber wing, and cried piteously. I stooped quickly down, fearing it might be injured. Several times I tried to catch it but it was always just beyond my reach.

Of course I knew this killdeer trick, but each experience leads me before I find the cause, to half believe the bird is wounded. One time a killdeer flew down upon a broad topped fence post near where I stood. It appeared to hit the surface hard and at once feigned injury. I reached out and almost touched the open beak. It rolled on its side to the post's very edge before it flew.

Now I followed the path farther south, ignoring the bird's loud cries. She flew so near my head that I felt the swift current her wings made in passing. She shrieked so loudly that my ear drums pained. I placed my hand on a post along the middle fence and carefully scanned the grassy floor. At first I did not detect anything but after a moment of close observation I detected two dark objects, gray and mottled upon the gray mottled background of last year's withered grass. The two eggs blended into their background so that when I looked away it was some little time before I could again discern them.

There are never more than two—one end of each blunt, the other pointed, so that if some shock should cause a change of position, the eggs would never be far apart.

The nest was just a little hollow in the grass where the sun could strike it. The eggs were not more than four inches from the post. No grazing animal would easily molest it.

Now that I actually had discovered her nesting place, the intense excitement of the mother bird subsided some. When I walked away she followed up the path for a distance of 50 feet, feigning injury again. I highly respect her right to her humble home and am delighted with her independence. She does not know that when I hear her scream at night I am always concerned lest some enemy has robbed her.

Cotton Shoes Gay, Smart, Cool

Left, print longcloth dress, solid color apron, red cotton, leather-soled shoes; top right, lattice strap sandals; below, cotton top oxfords, rope soles.

By SUSAN BARDEN
(International Illustrated News Writer)

This summer is going to be a cotton season. And every year cottons grow more colorful and more flattering. And now you can literally be cotton-clad from top to toe, for your feet can slip into cool cotton shoes, real hot weather models that protect yet let in all the breezes.

With the urgent need of saving vital rubber, lots of women were afraid that it might not be possible to buy gay, inexpensive play shoes, but after Pearl Harbor, Kedettes designed many new styles with leather and rope soles, which have the same jaunty colors and fine fit that summer shoes demand.

These wartime shoes are carefully created to make your feet look and feel cool, and bring you both freedom and comfort.

Dressed All In Cotton.

The girl who is all done up to do its Victory gardening in wearing a barbecue dress fashioned of everfast longcloth, with a clever little apron made of one of the solid colors in the print of the dress. The shoes have a slight heel for walking comfort, and are made in white and brown cotton with a leather sole. They are oxford style with open toes, and can be worn wtih daytime dresses in town as well as for country outings.

The Blucher oxfords shown with anklets are excellent for all kinds of outdoor activities from the beach to the mountains. The cotton tops are sturdy enough for hard wear, yet soft enough for comfort.

The lattice strap sandal has a modified platform heel and a leather sole. The cotton tops are colorfast, and come in two color combinations as well as one tone.

There is a wide variety of styles to go with almost any type of summer costume as well as with slacks and shorts. And the shoes are really so low in price that anyone can afford to get several different pairs to match accessories or dresses.

Since there is also a wide choice of colors, red, bright blue, green, gold, tan, rust, multi-colored, white, blue and brown, it will be easy to find shoes to match or contrast.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Purposely I was turning the knife in the wound. My old affection for my brother-cousin and allegiance to him was flooding back upon me, but the remembrance of Katharine's unhappiness, and of her love, loyalty and faithful care of my children was so strong that I could not wholly forgive Jack for the tragic unhappiness he had caused her.

I had impressed upon him the all-important fact that Katharine still loved him only, and that what she felt for Meredith was only pity and admiration, even though I wondered whether I were telling him the truth. But it would do him no hurt, I decided, to let him realize that while he had sorely neglected his wife, there was a handsome, successful, brilliant and lovable man who greatly desired to marry her.

Calls Jack an Idiot.

"You are right," he said heavily. "I have no place in Katharine's life. I must go out of it, and give her the chance of happiness with Meredith."

"You abysmal idiot!" I stormed, luckily having enough caution left to keep my voice muted, "will you please bring up any reserves of common sense you may have hidden within you and listen while I explain this thing to you?

"In the first place," I went on, "I was not talking about Katharine's emotions, but those of Hal Meredith. He loves her; yes, who could help it? But Katharine does not love him, although she likes, respects and admires him tremendously, as I do. She loves only you. Why God knows; I don't. You not only have acted the Gadarene swine toward her for years, but now you're planning to hand her over—without even asking her permission, mind you—to another man."

"You're sure of that—what you just said — that Katharine loves me?" he stammered.

It was too late to do anything but perjure myself, although I told myself in extenuation that I really did not know Katharine's heart.

"Yes, I'm sure," I answered shortly.

"Then," he rose and stretched his arms, "I am my own man again. And if I live to get out of this last mess, which sometimes I doubt, I'm going to try to make up to her for all she's suffered. Don't tell me anything more."

"But I must tell you one thing more," I said, "and ask you one more question. You must know—and then you need never think of it again — that the story Ruth Hayes told about Katharine going to the hospital, where he lay in delirium calling for her, and saving his life by her arrival, was true.

"Hal had been refusing to take 'No' for an answer from Katharine," I said, "and then he crashed in an airplane and was taken to a hospital, where it was given out that he probably was dying. The doctors said there was a slender chance for his life if they could find the woman for whom he constantly called in his delirium.

"I knew it must be Katharine, and I got hold of Katharine in New Hampshire.

Saved Meredith's Life

"I had urged her to make the trip, for I knew her conscience would never let her rest if she didn't. And I was with her every time she was in his room, helping to care for him.

"She brought him back to life, and when he realized what she had done he called for me, told me he knew how much she loved you and that she had come only out of pity, and he insisted upon her going away, even though he was still terribly weak, because he wished her to do nothing which would make you angry.

"But he told me, too, that he would never give up the idea of sometime winning her, unless you should return and make her happy again. Then, he said, he would be resigned to his own loss, if only she could be happy."

I stopped, and Jack looked at me with infinite sadness in his eyes, but no vistage of anger or bitterness.

"I am afraid she would be happier with him," he said. "He is 'a better man than I am, Gungha Din."

What to Do About Your Freckles

By MME. QUI VIVE

To the young lady with polka dots upon her pretty face we wish to say that freckles are terrible if you think so, amount to nothing at all as a beauty grief if you don't mind them. They're not disfiguring like some other complexion blemishes—eruptions and blackheads, for instance. They are a minor blemish, belong at the end of the list of things about which girls wail and make complaint.

If you have freckles you don't have to worry about getting them. That's something. You can enjoy sunshine and outdoor life. Some people think they're cute. A few freckles on a girl's nose never kept boys from dating her. Of course, if she mourns about them, believes that the hand of fate has sent the golden speckles to provoke and distress her, that's different. She will become self-conscious and that state will interfere with social life. There have been cases like that. Young Things conjure up complexes over trifles.

Let's see what can be done about freckles. These pigmentary spots may be permanent residents or transients. They are caused by strong winds and the rays of the sun.

To combat atmospheric trouble makers—wind and sun—it is necessary to keep the skin lubricated. Creams or oily liquid cosmetics should be used freely, not only before going to bed but during the day. After the face is washed an oil should be applied. It is not wise to use soap just before going out into strong sunlight or directly after coming in; it leaves the skin dry, in perfect condition to attract discolorations.

The time to begin is now, before the rays of the sun get stronger. Condition the flesh for the warm months that will soon be with us.

Powder is a protective agent, especially if it has an oily base. Fluff it on lightly, don't grind it in. If you like a foundation cosmetic, get one that is fairly heavy and creamy. Apply with plenty of friction.

Face peeling treatments—they are expensive and must be done only by experts—will give one a fresh, unblemished skin. But exposure to strong sunlight will bring a fresh crop of the yellow visitors.

A mild bleach that will keep freckles from getting dark and numerous is made by combining equal parts of strained lemon juice and peroxide. A good time to apply it is after the face has been washed in the morning, before cream is rubbed on. Put it on with pledgets of cotton, let it dry.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

MARKING A SQUEEZE

Keen cards readers, who listen to the bidding and make clear-cut deductions from it, can sometimes read clearly that their only chance to make their contract, or perhaps an extra trick, is by means of a squeeze on a particular opponent. His previous actions mark him with certain cards, which make it perfectly clear that a certain finesse will fail. Knowledge of the structure of both forward and backward squeezes, plus the care to build the correct one, can then decide the issue.

Mrs. John J. Burns, who is known to her friends in the bridge circles of Scranton, Pa., by her first name of Carmel, made beautiful use of squeezing tactics to gain an extra trick on this deal in the annual tournament of the Skytop club.

Instead of leading his partner's suit, which South showed to be thoroughly stopped, West raked in his spade K and A, and then led the 9 to the 10. Mrs. Burns, considering that West had already shown so much strength, realized that East must positively have the heart K in addition to his club suit in order to have made an overcall during the bidding. Hence she refrained from any idea of trying the heart finesse and embarked upon a squeeze.

First she knocked out the club A with the 4 to the Q, then took the return spade with the Q, led to the diamond A, dropping the Q, and scored the J and 10. The club K and J then set the stage for the squeeze, which was by laying down the diamond K. After following suit, the dummy had also the heart A and Q, which East could not successfully guard with his K and J, since he had to throw the J in order to keep the club 10 as protection against South's 7. The Heart 3 to the A then dropped the K, and the Q took the last trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.

If you and your partner are using opening two bids as a weakness shower to try to crowd out your opponents, what bidding would you recommend by East and West on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, June 5

DESPITE some restrictive and restraining elements this should be a day of unusual enterprise and initiative to launch fresh projects or put over new programs for meeting obligations, financial or otherwise. All may move at high tempo toward this end, although with but little support or encouragement from those in power.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an unusually exciting, active and constructive year, with many things having a progressive spurt in a new direction or new programs or propositions. These should move at a lively pace despite lack of cooperation from those in influence or high position, as well as other tenacious obstacles. There will be compensation for this from friendly female relatives or those of closer ties.

A child born on this day should be possessed of great productive capacity and versatility of a practical and constructive quality.

DESERT TANK FIGHTING HAS ITS ADVANTAGES

British Captain Says It's No Picnic, But Cooler Than You'd Think.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Roaring over the Libyan desert in a tank isn't any picnic, but it does have some advantages. It is cooler in the tank than in the desert heat and the tank is practically immune to dive bombing attacks.

Take it from a British tank unit captain who went through a desert campaign, the heat isn't much worse one month than another, and anyway, there are fans in the tanks to make them more comfortable.

As for the Luftwaffe's dive bombers, he said he never had seen one score a hit on the scurrying tanks.

"They just can't hit them with bombs, although they may pick off a turret man with their machine guns," the captain said.

He indicated Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchenleck's tanks also are prepared for gas warfare, for he said mustard gas would not seep into them very easily.

Sand storms, not heat, give the tank fighters their worst days.

"In the worst storms the sand is so thick that visibility is cut to 10 yards," he said. "Friend and foe are indistinguishable under such conditions, and in a country where there are no natural landmarks it is impossible to maintain direction and position.

"Sand doesn't hurt the gears, for they are well sealed, but the air-filters on the carburetors take an awful beating and they must be changed frequently."

The worst storms come in the winter and conditions now are probably as good for big scale fighting as they ever will be, he said.

Desert tank warfare is much like naval engagements, the captain said, in that the object is to destroy the enemy's weapons and not to win ground. Tanks move into battle much as a warship, too, with a navigator charting the course and directing the pilot.

It was not revealed what improvements have been made in the fire power of the American and British tanks since last winter's campaign but then the Axis had tank guns effective at 3,000 yards and 1,500 yards while the Allies had to come up to within 800 yards to get in their blows.

"This wasn't so bad, though," the captain said, "because tanks move into battle behind smoke screens and as they zig-zag across the desert the pilots give them an occasional 'kick' that raises clouds of dust in which they move."

Because of the disadvantage in firing range the British also developed tactics to a higher degree than the Axis, maneuvering in and out to get in their blows.

"With this skill in movement we will fight rings around them anytime we get equal firing range," he said.

As to the Italian army, the captain said its infantry quit in a hurry, especially when you get in close and a few of them get hurt, but that is a different story with the artillerymen and tank crews.

"The Italian artillerymen are excellent, possibly the best in the world, and they won't quit," he said. "The only way you can knock them out is to roll right into their positions, and even then they are firing until the last moment. As for their tank crews, they simply won't quit. They will wade in against suicidal odds. At the big fight below Bengazi we had to knock out 150 of their 160 tanks before they would quit."

Reports that tank rivets tear loose and kill the crew when a direct hit is scored are erroneous, he said.

NEEDS SHEEP BARBERS

AUGUSTA, Me — (U.P.) — Maine sheep are in a hot spot because of the war. Samuel F. Dorrance, state sheep specialist, fears the state's sheep may wear their wool all year because of a shortage of shearers to harvest the annual 300,000-pound production.

Ex-Wife Regards Former Husband Okay as a Boss

DEDHAM, Mass. — (INS) — He was too exacting as a husband but as just her boss at the gas station, Mrs. Dorice Heinemann says, he "measures up with the best of them."

When Walter Heinemann was looking for some one to handle the gas station business while he took a war job he learned that his 30-year-old former wife, who divorced him a year ago, was hunting a job.

He hired her.

"It worked out fine for both of us," she says. "I don't mind the hard work because I get a pretty good week's pay. I have our two children to watch out for."

The future, she asserts, will be strictly business.

"We tried hard once to make our marriage successful. But now I definitely am not in love with him. Our business association is purely a relationship between employer and employe."

CIO Welcomes Unions That Quit Lewis

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Key to the significance of the Japanese attack on our naval and air base at Dutch Harbor, up among the fog-shrouded and inhospitable Aleutians off the Alaska peninsula, lies in the strength employed in the second raid and the amount of damage done, if any.

The first raid with four bombers, protected by fighter planes, was a mild affair. If the subsequent assault was of like kind, the Japs obviously weren't attempting a major operation but likely were staging a nuisance raid for its propaganda value and its possible effect on American nerves. It may have been a face-saving reprisal for our recent devastating raid over Japan.

In any event, Seattle gives us the good news from Rear Admiral Freeman, commander of the 13th Naval district at Seattle, that Dutch Harbor wasn't taken by surprise and was prepared to meet the attack.

Whether or not the present Jap attack was a minor operation, it may be expected that sooner or later they will make an all-out drive against these defenses. The position was summed up in Washington by Anthony J. Dimond, Alaskan delegate to congress, like this:

"Of course, it shows good sense and judgment on their part if they can bust up what we are doing in Alaska and the Aleutians. They believe their greatest danger lies in the approach to their shores which we are going to make from Alaska."

The danger of attack from this region isn't the only reason the Japs are anxious to deliver a knockout blow to Dutch Harbor. They undoubtedly harbor ambitions to take over this base and establish themselves in the Aleutians as a preliminary to further attacks on Alaska and the rest of the western coast of North America.

The Japs may have hoped this would result in the American authorities diverting defensive forces from the west coast to Alaskan waters, thus giving Nippon a chance to stage against our west coast one of the raids of which Secretary of War Stimson warned us the other day. However, it may be said that this is rather a naive hope, since we are scarcely likely to be tricked that way.

The Nipponese raiders must have been operating from an aircraft carrier. Their nearest base is too far away to permit of such a raid.

The only surprising thing about the raid is that the enemy should have struck with such light forces at first, thereby putting Dutch Harbor even more on the alert. One would have expected the Japs to have made their initial blow a hard one.

2,880 MILE TOP ON AUTO TRAVEL BEING STUDIED

Final Verdict on Rationing of Gas Expected at Cabinet Meeting Friday.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A limit of 2,880 miles a year on non-essential automobile travel was under consideration today as the issue of national gasoline rationing neared an expected final verdict at President Roosevelt's cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Direct action by the chief executive appeared inevitable to resolve a conflict which has provoked a storm of hostility in congressional quarters and left the nation's war planners at odds on major details of the program to curb the use of 33,000,000 passenger cars.

Disclosure that millions of motorists might be restricted to less than 3,000 miles of driving annually came as the office of price administration announced details of the permanent program for the 17 Atlantic states from Maine to Florida.

Officials closely associated with the controversial topic of national gasoline rationing admitted that the 2,880-mile figure had frequently entered into discussions. The current average for motorists is 9,000 miles.

In such an event, the weekly gasoline allotment might amount to under four gallons on the basis of 48 coupons a year and an average of 15 miles to the gallon.

There was little doubt that the ultimate program would be based on mileage, since the entire undertaking has been advanced as a method of preserving automobile tires—the country's most precious stockpile of rubber.

Major details of national gasoline rationing are expected to be ironed out, in consultation with the president, particularly the question of which agency shall administer the far-reaching program—the office of defense transportation or the OPA.

MARSHAL DIES

Willard Police Officer Taken By Death at Home.

WILLARD—William Vogel, 64, Willard city marshal and former Huron county deputy sheriff, died at 9:30 p. m., Wednesday at his home after a one-day illness with heart disease.

The officer suffered an attack yesterday morning and remained at home during the day. He succumbed to a second attack.

He was appointed marshal last March 1 by Mayor E. L. Wolff to succeed Charles Bohn who had held the marshal's post for 50 years.

Mr. Vogel was born Dec. 5, 1877, near Willard and passed his entire life in or near the city.

The body was taken to the Secor Funeral home and will be returned later to the residence where funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon. Burial will be in the New Haven cemetery. No time had been set today for the services.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Artie Cushman Vogel; a twin brother, Frank Vogel of Willard, and another brother, Edward Vogel of Richmond township, Huron county.

Mayor Wolff said Fire Chief L. C. Williams will fill the marshal's post temporarily until a successor is named.

HOUSE SEEKS TO SAVE CCC

Leaders Prepare to Act as Economy Forces Begin Attack on NYA.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—House leaders today made plans to save the civilian conservation corps while economy forces led a fight to cut off funds for another administration-favored project—the National Youth Administration.

The house appropriations committee knocked out an allotment of $75,000,000 for the CCC which had the effect of putting an end to this agency, one of President Roosevelt's "pet" depression-time creations.

Funds for the CCC were contained in the $1,000,000,000 labor-federal security appropriation bill. Economy bloc leaders revealed they will sponsor an amendment to delete $58,000,000 for the NYA which also is contained in the labor-security measure.

During the hearings on the appropriation some members of the committee looked askance on NYA activities and recommended that it should restrict its operations to the "type of industrial training necessary to the war effort."

President Roosevelt in a special message to congress asked that the CCC be continued on a reduced scale during the war.

Rep. Tarver (Ga.) predicted that if the committee's action is upheld by the house and senate, the government will have to spend many millions of dollars to carry on forest fire prevention on a national scale.

JUDGE ORDERS PROPERTY SALE

Rules In Dispute Over Chinese Laundry Here.

A drawn-out court dispute over the ownership of a Chinese laundry property on East Third street apparently was ended today when Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston ordered sale and partition of the property.

The case was heard last month when the court and attorneys had difficulty understanding the testimony presented by the four Chinese who claimed a share of the property.

Under the court's partition order, Paul G. Wong, plaintiff in the action, will receive an eight-twentieths share. Defendants John Wing and George Wing will receive five-twentieths each, and the remaining two-twentieths share will go to Charles Wing.

RENAMED TO BOARD

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Charles L. Stout, of Nelsonville, today was reappointed by Gov. John A. Bricker as a member of the state board of embalmers and funeral directors for a term beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1947.

OPA INVESTIGATORS TO CHECK OHIO STORE PRICE CEILINGS

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— The butcher, the baker—every fourth merchant in Ohio and West Virginia soon will receive an unprecedented (and unheralded) visitor.

An Office of Price Administration investigator will call to check the retail merchant's observance of federal price ceilings. OPA officials say "hundreds" of violations already have been reported in Ohio, but that only a limited number of the actual infringements have been intentional.

Scores of OPA agents met in Cleveland today to plan the great visitation in Ohio, West Virginia and neighboring states, part of a nationwide campaign which will send OPA investigators into 25 per cent of the retail stores in the United States.

The OPA says the drive "is more an educational campaign than an enforcement drive."

In Ohio alone there are 200,000 retail stores. That means that 50,000 merchants will be called upon and instructed in proper posting of price ceilings. The OPA expects the other 75 per cent of the merchants to learn the right approach to this unprecedented form of regulation by visiting the "sample" stores which have received personal advice from the OPA.

OPA spokesmen said most violations have been made by retailers of commodities made from metals, where war-created material shortages have hit supplies hardest. Food price violations also have been numerous, especially at the meat counters.

Officials said hardware stores "responded nobly" to price regulation, groceries "fairly well," drug stores "better than expected." But they said some large department stores in the state have been "among the worst offenders."

All sorts of people have reported violations and apparent infringements, according to the OPA—some for patriotic reasons, others because "they don't want someone making hay while the average person pays."

The large stores have watched each other "like hawks," OPA spokesmen said, and many merchants have reported violations by competitors.

FORCED SALES

Sheriff Puts Eight Properties on Block Tomorrow.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson will offer eight Mansfield properties at public auction at 10 a. m. Saturday at the courthouse, seven on a foreclosure judgment and one on a delinquent tax foreclosure order.

Seven lots at West Third street and Rowland avenue, valued at $19,350, will go on the block on a $4,500 judgment held by the Mansfield Building and Loan association. The properties were involved in an action started by Nellie M. Dickson against Willard Dickson and others. There are houses on four of the lots.

Valued at only $50, a vacant lot at Sturges avenue and Mendota street will be sold on an order obtained by County Treasurer Charles Payne against Calvin O. Gettings and others. The judgment is for $262.

FUNERAL TIME CHANGED

The time for funeral services for Mrs. John Cameron, former Mansfield resident, who died unexpectedly Monday at her home in Tampa, Fla., has been changed from 2:30 to 3 p. m. Saturday. Rev. Elwyn Owen, pastor of the Mayflower Congregational church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Laff-a-Day

"Ma dear, please don't put on any more musicales down here. I'd like to keep on good terms with the boys!"

County juvenile court officials were more amused than angry today at the exploits of two youngsters who were reported to the court. The pair took a dollar's worth of stamps from their mother's relief stamp book and used them to buy strawberries. They sold the berries, bought 25 cents worth of cookies, some doughnuts and cream puffs, and then topped off their celebration by purchasing two swimming tickets at a Mansfield pool.

The oldest county game protector in Ohio from the standpoint of service, Charles I. Kimmel, Richland county's game warden, is the subject of an article in the June issue of the Ohio Conservation magazine. Kimmel has been on the job for 31 years. The story quotes Kimmel as saying that his most thrilling experience was the time a hunter became excited and fired both barrels of a shotgun at the game warden, shooting off his coattail. Kimmel was so glad the charges missed him that he let the hunter go with a reprimand.

City council is becoming alarmed at the tendency of Mansfielders to change established street names. Tuesday night, a request was made to change the name of Green street to Ohio street and to make it an extension of Ohio. Councilman Russell Porch pointed out that the matter could be carried too far. "After all," Porch said, "Green street may be an extension of Ohio street but it also is an extension of Crouse street which is an extension of Weldon avenue which is an extension of Coul street." Council withheld a decision of the changing of Green street's name until its next meeting.

Even the kindergarten youngsters are aiding with the war effort. Yesterday afternoon the children of Mrs. John Carr's private kindergarten trooped to the Red Cross headquarters with sizeable boxes of tin foil that they had collected throughout the year. The saving of tin foil is one of the projects of the Junior Red Cross Council. While at headquarters the children were shown through the different departments and had the various activities explained to them by office workers.

RESOLUTION LASHES MINE WORKERS BOSS

125 Representatives of UMW Locals Ask For Charter Under Murray.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The Congress of Industrial Organizations opened the way today for all who want to desert John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers to join the CIO.

The first application to be considered was that of 125 representatives of UMW district 50 locals here to appeal for a new charter under the CIO. They claimed to represent more than 30,000 members.

CIO President Philip Murray extended the invitation to all "who resent the dictatorial methods of John L. Lewis" to join in maintaining a united labor effort toward winning the war.

Murray told a CIO executive board meeting that the CIO refused to be dominated by Lewis and that further co-operation with him was impossible if he persisted in his present attitude.

A resolution unanimously adopted by the executive board charged that Lewis had used his UMW presidency to "hamper the nation's victory efforts" not only by failing to support President Roosevelt but also by a "studied campaign of disrption and disunity, both within and without the labor movement."

Murray, in an impassioned hour and a half address reivewing his controversy with Lewis which led up to his expulsion as UMW vice president last week, charged that Lewis urged him to engage in acts which he regarded as treasonable.

"Last fall Lewis suggested that I go to the Detroit CIO national convention with him and fight the foreign policy of the President of the United States," Murray said. "I told him that I would not, that to do so would be treasonable to the United States government. Lewis is hell bent on creating national confusion and national disunity."

Murray's statement was made a few hours after Lewis told a UMW executive board meeting that he had sought, "in so far as it has been given to me to participate, to make contribution" to the nation's war effort.

"Circumstances in recent months have perhaps prevented me from making the degree of contribution I would like to make, because some influences in the country have sought to limit that phase of my activities," Lewis said.

Issues Appeal for Simpson First Aid Station Supplies

Dr. W. E. Wygant, who heads the medical staff of Casualty station No. 1 under the Mansfield Civilian Defense set-up, issued a call today for supplies to equip the station located at John Simpson Junior high school.

Wygant requested parents and pupils of the high school and any others who can donate supplies to bring them to the front office of the school building within the next two weeks.

Equipment needed to outfit the station includes folding canvas cots, cotton blankets, old sheets and pillow cases, safety pins, wash-basins, and rubber sheets or old raincoats.

The supplies will be used and kept at the John Simpson high school building, Wygant said.

Jean Hering, defending women's golf champion at Westbrook Country club is starting the season in championship style.

Pro Tom Raklets in reporting a Hering card this week of 47-42—89, thought maybe it might be a women's record for the course, but it isn't even a record for club members, several of whom have toured the layout in the low 80's in recent years.

But it was a plenty good round for Jean, who graduates this week from Mansfield high school, and who won the club championship last summer, and then the city title in a match with Possum Run Champion Patty Oberlander on scores that weren't as good as her 89.

* * *

As far as I have been able to learn, the women's record at Westbrook is 42-38—80, scored by Mansfield's state publinks champion, Thelma Linster.

This is three strokes over women's par for the course, and the second nine is even par.

And the mark was set in actual competition during an invitational tournament two years ago for Ashland, Shelby and Possum Run women, so it goes down in the book as official with all greens holed out.

* * *

Sorry to spoil Tom's hopes of a record but now that we know the record Jean will have something to shoot at.

If Jean is superstitious, she can blame old 13 for spoiling her chances of equaling the record and par on the second nine.

After starting out with an eagle, par and birdie, she went three over par on the 13th and two more over on the 14th with a pair of sevens.

But I would gladly trade for her card, sevens and all. Here 'tis:

* * *

Women's par	5	4	5 4 3 5—39
Hering	5	5	5 6 5 5—47
Women's par	5	4	5 4 5 3—38
Hering	3	4	4 7 7 3 5 5 4—42

* * *

Thelma Linster, who has retired from local competition, seems to make a habit of setting course records.

I wouldn't know how many of these baubles she owns, but I'd wager that if all the records she has set have reached the public prints, she has a record of them. Yes, she keeps a scrap book.

The last course record she set was in the state publinks tournament at Columbus last summer when she became the first woman to equal women's par of 74 at the Twin Rivers layout.

This business of setting course records is a very nice habit at that. Me? All my habits are bad. Dang it!

Bonham Hangs Up 8th Win

Homer By Joe Kuehl Spoils His Shutout.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

ERNIE BONHAM, the undefeated righthanded pitching star of the New York Yankees, is getting too good for his own good.

Jumbo won his eighth straight game yesterday, 4-1, at the expense of the Chicago White Sox. He kept eight hits scattered, walked only two, and would have had a shutout except for a homer by Joe Kuhel in the seventh.

* * *

This pitching almost certainly would have satisfied the supporters of any other hurler in the majors, but the onlookers at Yankee stadium sized it up as one of Bonham's poorest performances of the season.

In the first place it wasn't a shutout. The big fellow had administered four of these in his first seven starts and by the time he had laid six goose-eggs end to end yesterday some of the boys figured he should have had another.

It was the first time this year he had allowed more than seven hits. And those two bases on balls, tsk, tsk. He had yielded only five passes in seven games previously, and two in one game surely was slipping.

Joltin' Joe DiMaggio interrupted his batting slump to produce a three-run homer (his tenth of the season) for the margin of victory in the third inning.

* * *

The Philadelphia Athletics brought the Detroit Tigers to a sudden stop with a 5-1 decision on Jack Knott's six-hit hurling.

The St. Louis Browns routed Sid Hudson with an eight-run assault in the second inning and went on to whip Washington, 9-5, dropping the Senators into the American league cellar.

In the National league the Pittsburgh Pirates received a reprieve from the weather man.

Meanwhile the Boston Braves moved a game closer to the second-place Cardinals by capturing a 4-3 twilight struggle at St. Louis played before 11,447 fans for the benefit of the Army and Navy Relief funds.

* * *

Frank (Rube) Melton pitched and batted the Phils to a 2-1 tenning triumph over the Cincinnati Reds in a night game. He spaced six hits and doubled home the winning run. Big Paul Derringer pitched five-hit ball, but his teammates committed four errors.

Ancient Brewers Blanked by Birds

(By Associated Press)

Milwaukee was going great in the American association until statisticians released some data on the increase in age of association players since the war started. It showed the league-leading Milwaukee club with a flock of old men averaging 28 9 years, up next to the 30-year ancients of Indianapolis.

* * *

The Brewers showed the weight of their years last night and took an 8-0 whitewashing from Columbus. And Kansas City's infants (average age 25.9) promptly grabbed top spot by a half game margin, with a double victory over Toledo, 5-2 and 6-4.

* * *

Minneapolis absorbed a shutout, 3-0, in a twilight game with Louisville, then took the second game, 4-1.

Indianapolis grabbed seventh place by handing St. Paul its seventh straight licking, 4-1.

There's a former Cleveland professional hockey player in Mansfield General hospital, recuperating from injuries suffered Tuesday night in an automobile accident near Cardington. He is Austin Wilkie, 45.

ASK RACE DATE

COLUMBUS (U.P.) River Downs race track of Cincinnati asked the state racing commission to approve July 18-Sept. 7 for a 44-day meet. The dates conflict with the July 4-25 permit granted Ohio Sports Enterprises, Inc., for a meet at Hamilton. State law provides that meets within 30 miles of each other must not conflict. Hamilton is 23 miles from Cincinnati.

CHARLESTON DROPS 2ND STRAIGHT TILT

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Charleston, with a five-game lead in the Mid-Atlantic league a week ago, saw its margin slashed to three and one-half games last night as Erie won 2 to 1 and became the first team in the loop to defeat the Senators twice in a row.

Springfield and Canton split a doubleheader, the Cardinals taking the opener 2 to 0 and Canton the nightcap 5 to 2. Zanesville downed Dayton 5 to 4, scoring the winning run in the tenth inning on a hit and an error.

First Basemen Turn Brittle

Iron Man Variety Died Out With Gehrig.

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The season is barely eight weeks old, but at least one fine old baseball tradition already is taking an awful kicking around. That's the one about the first baseman being one of the steadiest men on the team. The iron-man breed of first sacker isn't dead yet, but he seems to be dying fast.

Once a first baseman with a 10-year service record was a common sight. Today the player who has held his position with the same team for as long as three seasons is as rare as a three dollar bill. The men who operated on long term leases are all but gone. The transient trade has taken command and the traffic is little short of terrific.

* * *

Twelve of the 16 major league clubs have used at least two first basemen in the first two months of the season. Three of them have employed three different men and three have called upon as many as four. And despite the almost unprecedented turnover, several managers haven't settled their problems to any degree of satisfaction yet.

Take the Boston Red Sox, for instance. The Sox first base post has changed hands oftener than Peggy Hopkins etcetera etcetera Joyce. Jimmy Foxx had it when the season opened. Ulysses Lupien held forth for a spell. Lou Finney gave it a whirl and now Joe Cronin is holding forth there. If he breaks down, Joe may be forced to draft his boss, Tom Yawkey.

Foxx was sold to Chicago and when he checked in with the Cubs he headed into a similarly chaotic situation. The Cubs started out with the much-traveled Babe Dahlgren. Jimmy Wilson benched the Babe in favor of Rip Russell, then benched the Ripper for Phil Cavaretta.

With the exception of four clubs—the New York Giants, the Detroit Tigers, the Washington Senators and the Cleveland Indians—every manager has been beset with an initial sack problem. Joe McCarthy of the Yanks tried Ed Levy and finally decided on Buddy Hassett, a National league castoff from Boston. At Boston, Casey Stengel replaced Hassett with Max West, Lew Gremp and John Cooney.

If you haven't lost track at this point, let's look at the White Sox. Jimmy Dykes started with Joe Kuhel, switched to Don Kolloway and then tried Murrell Jones. At Cincinnati, Deacon Will McKechnie has employed Frank McCormick, Henry Cauer and Bert Haas. And so it goes down the line.

* * *

The shortage of steady, sound players is a trifle astounding because the position has a great history.

The endurance records in both leagues are held by first basemen—Gus Suhr of Pittsburgh in the National league and Lou Gehrig in the American.

Galion Loses Fifth In Row

GALION—Galion dropped its fifth straight game Wednesday evening when the Findlay Oilers defeated the Jaycee team by a score of 4 to 2. This defeat keeps Galion from gaining the third rung position in the Ohio State league and Findlay now ranks behind Fremont and Tiffin. Findlay has a record of four wins and three losses, while the Jaycees have a two victory and five losses record.

The abbreviated game, called in the sixth because of darkness, was played at Heise park. Galion hit in hard luck but Goldsmith's error let in the winning runs in the fifth. The same teams play again at Findlay on Sunday.

State Publinks Tournament Dates Appear Scrambled

By FRITZ POWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's 14th annual public links golf championship is just a bit up in the air.

There are two certainties — it will be held at the Heatherdowns course in Toledo, and all prizes will be in war bonds or stamps—but from there on everything is a toss-up.

Ray Pennell, executive secretary of the Ohio Public Links golf association, said problems still to be ironed out were the dates, the length of the tournament, and whether the feminine feature for the annual classic would be staged as usual.

To give the "pay-as-you-play" boys and girls a chance to get away from their jobs, without taking too much time off for golfing, the tournament has always been held on a Saturday and Sunday.

Some time ago Pennell suggested the dates of Aug. 8 and 9 for this year, but the Toledo district association, in making up its 1942 program, found those dates unsuitable. The association announced the meet would be held June 18 and 19, but since those dates fall on Thursday and Friday, the association probably meant July 18 and 19—a Saturday and Sunday.

Anyway, the date hasn't been settled, but probably rests between the July 18-19 or the Aug. 8-9 weekends. Now a new problem crops up. Toledo officials, declaring many of their Publinksters are involved in defense factory work, with most of them on a six-day schedule, said they thought the tourney should be limited to a single day with 36 holes of medal play.

Pennell said he was willing to go along with that idea, since probably the same defense work situation prevailed all over the state. That change, however, jeopardizes the fourth annual women's tournament, said Pennell expressing doubt that the Heatherdowns course would care to tie up both its private and public layouts for an entire Sunday.

Original plans called for the women to play 18 holes Saturday morning, and 18 Sunday afternoon, over the Heatherdowns private course, while the men would play 36 each day over the public layout. The twin tournaments could not be crowded on a single course, Pennell said, if played in a single day.

"Perhaps we could play the men 36 holes over the public course, and the women 18 over the private course Sunday afternoon," Pennell said, "thus cutting the tournament in half."

* * *

Pennell is contacting members of the executive board of the association, and hopes to have the details ironed out in a few days.

"There'll be a tournament," he declared, "and I don't expect the entry list to be cut much. Most of our boys and girls 'team up' in automobiles to get there anyway, so tire and gasoline rationing wouldn't hurt us much."

Dick Rhyan of Columbus is the defending men's champion, while Thelma Linster of Mansfield has eclipsed the feminine field the last two years.

Kushin Shoots Four Under Par

Has Best Competitive Score of 1942 Season.

Al Kushin blasted par by four strokes to take medal honors in the Westinghouse golf league last evening with a 32, best competitive score reported for the season in any Mansfield league.

Chuck Snyder was one under par with a 35, while Ferguson turned in a 38 and Mathias a 39 for the only other 40-breakers.

Softballers Turn Sluggers

Geiger Hurls 4-Hitter, Other Pitchers Pounded.

Batting averages soared and runs scored faster than bombs over Cologne in Mansfield softball leagues last evening as Westinghouse shelled Tappan's 23-2, Humphryes outblasted Hughes-Keenan 16-12, and Mansfield Tire strafed Local 1405 of A. F. L. 13-8.

Pitchers prayed for the blackout signal and looked frantically for steel helmets as hits whistled off the bats of opposing sluggers. Aid Geiger, Westinghouse ace, was the only moundsman to escape the slugfest as he let Tappan's down with four blows. But for the space of two innings, Tappan's held a 2-0 lead, scoring both their markers in the first frame.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—When Herve Lascelles visited Germany in 1936 as a bantamweight scrapper on the Canadian Olympic boxing team he was eliminated in the first round by Ortiz of Mexico. . . . The other night Herve went back to Germany as pilot officer in the Royal Canadian Air Force. . . . They say he got a better decision at Cologne. . . . Pancho Snyder, the Jersey City Giants' manager, occupies an upper berth just like the rawest rookie when his club takes the road. . . . "I don't ask nobody on my club to do anything I won't do myself," he explains. . . . Lee Farmer, Iowa's sprint and broad-jump champ, was a star in high school basketball and does all right in baseball, boxing, wrestling, horseshoe pitching, tennis, checkers and table tennis—and he reached the quarter finals of the national marbles tournament at the Chicago world's fair in 1933.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Jake Wade, Charlotte (N. C.) Observer: "Pape-in-law Jimmy Smith, over whose head Billy Conn recently broke his hand, is a former New York Giant outfielder. Manager Mel Ott, who seems to be recalling many of the old Giant hands, should bring in Smith to do his umpire-baiting, and to be around in case the Dodgers get too rough."

SERVICE DEPT.

Ed Fruitig, the big end who used to get air sick every time the Green Bay Packers made a trip by plane, has just earned his wings in the naval air corps. . . . Pvt. Cecil Travis, former Washington infielder, reports that his Senator sidekick, Buddy Lewis, is impatient to get into the air. Buddy started out at Fort Knox, Ky., in the armored force but has shifted to Kelly Field, Tex., to become an air cadet. . . . Capt. Jay Vessels, who used to cover a lot of football for the AP, came east from Minneapolis for a new assignment with the army air forces, and had just about convinced the boys that Minnesota football is the best band anywhere when he ran into Lieut. Al Beane. . . . Then Jay remembered that Al hadn't been so bad himself in a couple of games with Albie Booth's Yale team

STRESS THRIFT AS VITAL DUTY OF AMERICANS

Price Administrator Declares Savings a Contribution to Final Victory.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Americans must apply the traditional ideas of New England thrift and saving as a contribution toward the final victory, J. K. Galbraith, assistant price administrator, said today.

"The thing is for each individual to avoid making unnecessary expenditures," Galbraith explained in an interview. "Every dollar spent unnecessarily threatens the stability of our economy; every dollar saved contributes to that stability."

During the 1930's, a legitimate economic service was served by spending money. Galbraith explained. Both the individual and the government contributed during the depression years through spending money instead of saving it, he said.

Now the situation is reversed. Individuals who spend their income for unnecessary things instead of buying defense bonds or putting it in a bank are doing their country a real disservice, the OPA executive said.

Americans will have to practice a rigid self-control if they are going to prevent tremendous pressures building up for price increases and ultimately inflation, Galbraith said.

Approximately $15,000,000,000 will have to be diverted from the nation's regular spending channels simply because war production will prevent the manufacture of enough civilian goods to take up all the income available.

After normal personal taxes and savings have been subtracted from the estimated 1942 income payments, OPA predicts that approximately $80,000,000,000 will be left. Normally this would be spent. But only $65,000,000,000 in civilian goods will be produced this year because much of America's industrial capacity is being converted to war goods.

The conversion program already has moved into the automobile industry and shortly will close down civilian production of radios, domestic mechanical refrigerators, washing machines and typewriters. That means that the money which formally went into these channels will have to find other places to go.

What becomes of these dollars rolling around in the economy is what bothers Galbraith and his OPA associates.

Some of these dollars obviously will go into defense bonds and other increased savings on a voluntary basis. Additional taxes are considered inevitable. Both these, however, are not expected to account for the entire $15,000,000,000. Congress has talked of compulsory savings—collection of part of every American's wages or salary regularly by the government before he receives his pay envelope or check.

BRITAIN LIFTS BAN ON WINE IMPORTS AFTER 15 MONTHS

(By International News Service)

LONDON — (INS) — Britain has lifted the ban on wine imports. For the first time in fifteen months, wines will be permitted into Britain — though on a very restricted scale compared with pre-war imports.

Food still has first priority in all shipments to this country, it is pointed out in official circles, so the amount of wine that will be brought here shall depend entirely on what space is left by food cargoes.

Special licenses have been granted to importing firms for the purchase of about 500 tons of wine from each of four countries. Those countries affected are: Australia, South Africa, Spain and Portugal.

The concesion is a small one. Five hundred tons are equal to 110,000 gallons so that the total to be authorized is 440,000 gallons.

Before the war Britain imported an average of 16,000,000 gallons of wines a year.

At the same time it was announced that 250,000 galons of Irish whisky will be brought to Britain. Some of this has already been imported, though it has not yet appeared in fast drying-up English 'pubs.'

Wine merchants in London are agreed that present stocks will soon be completely exhausted.

Said one London importer: "Although the allowance will be a small one, it will be most welcome. The scarcity of wines and spirits all over Britain has been getting more acute every month."

To Rouse Flow of LIVER BILE

Normally about a quart of digestion-aiding bile should be discharged into the intestines every day. A scanty flow—a slowing-up may cause sick headaches, bowel sluggishness and so-called billious indigestion with its half-sick, sour feeling.

If you suffer from such symptoms because you need more bile released from the gall-bladder, try world famous Kruschen Salts. Get a bottle tonight—start right in tomorrow morning and take as much as will lie on a dime in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast, or in your morning cup of tea or coffee, and keep it up for 30 days, don't miss a morning and note the results for yourself. You can get Kruschen, a famous English formula made in the U. S. A., at Muir's Cut Rate Drug Stores, Wm. Hursh, or any drug store. You must be satisfied or money back.

CONSTIPATION SUFFERERS Note: For an occasional cathartic or purgative to relieve common constipation, we believe there is nothing better than quick-acting Kruschen in larger doses—try it according to directions on the bottle.

Spry pies bring loud cheers—an' you make this 3-WAY SAVING —says Aunt Jenny

See why women everywhere say, "Spry gives me the best pastry I ever made!"

"MAKE this pie today, folks," says Aunt Jenny. "Compare it with other good ones you've made. See if the Sprycrust isn't just a little flakier an' more tender, better-tastin', too. See if it doesn't bring more compliments. Yes sir, this pie's a dandy—wholesome an' nourishin', too, with all those good ingredients in it!"

Canned Blueberry Pie

1½ cups canned blueberry juice
2½ cups canned blueberries
1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca or flour
Drain juice from blueberries
Boil juice down to ½ cup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 recipe Spry Piecrust
2 tablespoons butter

Combine blueberries, juice, tapioca, lemon juice and salt and let stand while rolling pastry. Roll ½ of dough and line 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with fruit. Dot with butter. Moisten edge with water. Roll remaining dough for top crust and cut a few slits to permit steam to escape. Fit top crust over fruit and seal edge of pie. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 50 to 60 minutes.

Spry Piecrust

Mix 2¼ cups sifted ALL-PURPOSE FLOUR and 1 teaspoon SALT. Measure out ¾ cup SPRY and divide into two equal parts.

STEP 1 for tenderness—cut in first half of Spry until as fine as meal.

STEP 2 for flakiness—cut in remaining Spry until particles are size of large peas.

Add 5 tablespoons cold WATER (no more, no less), mixing thoroughly into a dough. Makes enough pastry for one 9-inch 2-crust pie.

"Spry gives lighter FULL FLAVOR cakes, too. Foods fried the Spry way are extra delicious an' actually as digestible as if baked or boiled! Do all your bakin' an' fryin' with Spry for just one week an' I'll bet you never want to change."

1 SPRY SAVES TIME — SO QUICK AND EASY TO GET TENDER, FLAKY PASTRY SPRY'S SIMPLE 2-STEP WAY

2 SPRY SAVES MONEY — WHY HAVE UNEATEN PIE CRUST TO THROW OUT? NO FAILURES, NO WASTE THE SPRY WAY

3 SPRY SAVES FLAVOR — TENDER, NUT-SWEET SPRYCRUST LETS YOU GET THE FULL DELICIOUSNESS OF THE FILLING

GIVEN $6,419 IN CRASH SUIT

Perrysville Accident Victim Awarded Judgment After Car Mishap in Mansfield.

A jury in Richland county common pleas court today has awarded Wade H. Hunter, Perrysville, R. D. 2, $6,419 damages for injuries he suffered Feb. 7, 1941, in a traffic accident at Third and Diamond streets. Hunter asked $21,935.

Although the plaintiff named three defendants in his original action, the jurgment was against only one, Max R. Sayre, Mansfield, R. D. 4.

On the motion of Attorney William F. Black, counsel for the Ohio Public Service company as co-defendant, the court dismissed the OPS from the action. Attorney John C. O'Donnell, counsel for the plaintiff, then voluntarily withdrew his action against Kenneth F. Beabout, Roseland, the third defendant. The law firm of Beam and Beam represented Beabout.

Hunter suffered fractures of both legs when a car allegedly driven by Sayre struck him as he walked along the sidewalk. The car previously had collided with one operated by Beabout and then crashed into a OPS truck parked at the intersection. The plaintiff contended that Sayre drove through a red light.

HOOVER NO. 2 IN POLITICS

Navy to Recruit Thousands Sunday On 'Anniversary'

Navy recruiting officers in Mansfield received word today of a nation-wide service planned by the Navy department at 2:25 p. m. Sunday—exactly six months to the minute, from the time the first Japanese bomb fell on Pearl Harbor.

At that time, in cities throughout the nation, thousands of young men will take the Navy oath. Men in this area interested in obtaining information concerning enlistment in time for the ceremony may contact W. G. Cox, offices in charge of the recruiting station.

Fourteen men, four of them from Mansfield, who enlisted at the local station this week, went to Cleveland yesterday to receive the oath of allegiance and be transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Training school. They are:

Paul W. Baumberger, Sherman M. Ferguson, Kenneth Condon, jr., and Albert F. Jerger of Mansfield; Russell S. Landis, Shelby; William G. Batchelor, Mt. Gilead; Joseph E. Roberts, Nova; Robert D. Plice, Ashland; James K. Cornelius, Harry J. Weber and Robert F. Brokaw, Mt. Vernon; Robert S. Breymaier, Bucyrus; Evan Emerson Davies, Crestline and Jack H. Bennett, Sulphur Springs.

Metropolitan Chicago has nearly 2,000 churches with members and adherents in excess of 3,000,000.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Murder On the Avenue

By Carolyn Wells

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XXVII

"When Fleming Stone was ushered into the cell of "Abe Connors," and found there with him a young man who could justly be called "a spindly young chap," he concluded Wiley's visitor was Colly.

The two men were talking rapidly as Stone entered. The guard who had brought Stone, remained in the cell, which made the place a bit crowded.

Stone said, directly to the prisoner. "Mr. Wiley, I want to ask you a few questions."

"You can ask, but I don't have to answer."

The man seemed more disheartened than anrgy.

"But it will be to your advantage to answer. "Tell me, where is your daughter?"

"How do I know? She left me years ago. I know nothing of her and I don't want to."

"Yes, you do want to very much. Where is Ben Monk?"

"You seem to know a lot! Who are you anyhow?"

"I am a detective from New York, and I am trying to find your daughter, for her own good and yours."

"Nothing good will ever come my way. Take yourself off, Mr. Detective."

"Why are you holding on to that pack of cards so tightly? I am not going to take them from you."

Wiley looked a little embarrassed.

"I play solitaire," he said. "It makes the time pass a bit."

"Well, Wiley, if you won't tell me where Genevieve is, I must find out for myself. You know Jason Webb is dead?"

"What's it to me?"

"It might be something to your daughter. You're not very wise to trust her to Ben Monk."

"And what business is it of yours, Mr. Snoops?"

"None, except that I might be of some assistance—"

"Nixy, I know your kind of assistance!"

"You've been fortunate, then."

Stone was a little surprised to see Wiley look up quickly at this. But he only said, casually, "I know a new solitaire game. Want me to show you?"

"No, I don't. I say, Colly, I wish you'd bring me some new cards. I want two packs—alike, you know. I want to play the Eight Kings game."

"All right, Bo—I'll bring you some. Gimme your old ones."

Colly held out his hands for the cards Wiley was holding, but Fleming Stone neatly lifted them from Wiley's hand himself, and put them in his pocket.

"Just what I want!" he said, "I have to go to New York now, and I'll be glad of a round of solitaire to fill up the time."

"Gimme them cards, Mr. Stone." It was Colly who spoke, he looked terrified.

"Nonsense," Stone laughed. "I'll give you a dollar instead. That'll buy some new cards for Wiley. Well, I must move on." He turned to the waiting guard. "Sorry you don't like me, Wiley. I could have helped you—"

"Yes, you could!" Wiley sneered. "Help me into a worse spot than I'm in now. Get outta here!"

Stone left the jail, hopped a taxi and was soon back in Cobb's room at the hotel with a small table in front of him on which he was eagerly laying out the soiled cards he had taken from Colly's soiled hand.

"It must be," he murmured to himself. "Wiley couldn't have said Eight Kings, unless he meant it!"

* * *

Stone saw by the way Wiley had manipulated the cards that he was accustomed to sleight of hand. Stone could do card tricks, and he knew all the famous and popular ones. One of them, a classic, depended on the performer's knowing by rote the couplet:

Eight Kings threatened to save
Nine fine ladies for one sick knave.

This patter represented the sequence of cards, in a trick well known to magicians, and Fleming Stone shredwly suspected that if he could solve it, it would give him important information. He reasoned that Wiley was trying to tell Colly where Genevieve Wiley was, without letting the guard or Stone know.

The trick that he was assuming had been used was a simple one, but almost impossible of detection, unless one knew the key.

* * *

If a message was concealed in the arrangement of the cards by Wiley, it was necessary for him to give Colly the key. This, Stone assumed, he had done, when he mentioned Eight Kings. For the couplet represented, the thirteen playing cards, which ran in this order:

Eight, King, three, ten, two, seven, nine, five, Queen, four, Ace, six, Jack.

Deftly Stone arranged the cards in suits and in this order. Then he placed the suits in order of their value, though another arrangement might be necessary. But he was experimenting.

And he was rewarded. The trick was one of the oldest on record. The principle being that if a pack of cards were arranged in a given order, known to both parties, a secret message could be given.

This was done by placing the cards in the agreed order, and then, holding the pack tightly, write the message on the side of the pack of cards, that is, on the surface made by their edges. After this the pack, thoroughly shuffled, will present on its edge, a meaningless jumble of specks and dots, which cannot convey a message, unless the cards are in the right order.

But since Fleming Stone knew the right order, because of Wiley's mentioning Eight Kings, he found the words he was looking for clearly printed on the sides of the pack.

On one side he read the name Una Deane and on the other side, a street number far uptown on the extreme West Side of Manhattan. Stone's nerves tingled at this confirmation of his suspicion of the card trick.

After his first thrill of excitement, Stone called New York and told Raynor the name and address he had discovered. He advised him to go there at once, to get Una Deane, and to take her to Miss Malcolm's home, and that lady would take care of the girl until Stone could get back to New York and interview her himself.

He then called Peter Cobb to him. He thanked the young man for his great assistance and told him further recognition would be accorded when the time served.

Then he took an airplane back to New York, and went first to tell Brand Herrick what had happened. This indomitable young man was taking his hard fate bravely.

Herrick was amazed by what Stone had accomplished, but was most impressed by his finding Jason Webb's granddaughter by such clever means.

"Largely luck," Stone said. But Brand knew a brilliant mentality went hand in hand with that luck.

"Well," Stone smiled, "are you ready to marry the lady, if we have really found her?"

"Are citizens under arrest for murder privileged to marry if they choose? Would an orthodox minister perform such a service? Would a decent girl marry a felon?"

"Look at it this way, Herrick," Stone said quietly. "There is a great fortune at stake. You are not a felon; in fact I have strong hopes of proving that you are not. Do you want all that money to slip through your fingers, to say nothing of the lady's wishes?"

"But I don't know what she's like! I don't—"

"Well, don't you think she ought to have some say about it? She is more nearly related to Jason Webb than you are. Is it fair to give her no chance to inherit the money her grandfather wanted her to have?"

"No, it isn't. What do you advise?"

"I don't think the matter hinges on the personality of the girl. I think you are bound, by your uncle's will, morally if not legally, to do what you can to get her fortune for her. I shall see her soon, and I must take her some message from you. Shall I say that if she is willing you will marry her, if it can be done, and you will allow and expect her to divorce you as soon as she wishes to do so? I feel sure that with the very odd conditions of the marriage, a divorce could be obtained easily."

HIS VOICE SOUNDED LIKE A MAN OF INTELLIGENCE, BUT ALL YOU SAW OF HIM WAS HIS REFLECTION?
YES, COLONEL, HE KEPT SAYING NOT TO LOOK HIS WAY—GUESS HE DIDN'T WANT WHOEVER IT WAS HE FEARED TO—
—TO NOTICE HE HAD SLIPPED THE ENVELOPE TO ME!
AND YOU'D NEVER HEARD THAT VOICE BEFORE—FEEL SURE IT'S NOT A PRANK OF SOMEONE YOU KNOW?
YES, COLONEL, I FEEL SURE IT'S NOT!
WELL, I'D SUGGEST YOU PUT THE ENVELOPE IN THE SAFE—WAIT TILL TOMORROW. MAYBE THERE'LL BE AN AD IN THE PAPER THEN!
BUT NEXT DAY—
WELL, IF THAT DOESN'T BEAT ALL. NO AD IN HERE TODAY, EITHER!— NOW, WHAT DO I DO?

Lutz Says O. S. R. Inmate To Face First Degree Murder.

Completing his preliminary investigation of the fatal stabbing of a Mansfield reformatory inmate Monday night, Presecutor Harold T. Lutz said he would file a first degree murder charge this afternoon against Ernest Moore, 19, another inmate of the institution.

Stabbed 13 times with a knife made from a pair of scissors, Charles Dickerson, 31, died soon after he was wounded as he ran through a cellblock corridor.

Lutz said Moore probably would be taken before Municipal Judge G. E Kalbfleisch tomorrow for a preliminary hearing and then would be held for the county grand jury without bond.

with Japan, said 50,000 Japanese troops were being thrown into the Kiangsi offensive in a drive to seize the Kiangsi-Chekiang railway which leads into the heart of China.

High-lighting the gravity of China's peril, two top-ranking American officers in the Far Pacific arrived in Chungking by plane for conferences with Generalissimo Chiang. They are Lieut.-Gen Joseph W Stilwell, commander of Chinese forces in the lost battle of Burma, and Maj.-Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of U. S. army air forces in India.

Meanwhile, the British war office disclosed new evidence that Japan may have been planning to seize the strategic French island of Madagascar, off the coast of southeast Africa, now partly occupied by British troops.

The war office said two Japanese naval officers had been shot by a British patrol Monday at a village north of the British-held Diego Suarez naval base.

"When called upon to surrender, they opened fire on the British patrol and were shot," the war office announced.
